TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN

Rakhi Roderick worked for our family in New Delhi as a nanny to our daughter from March 2013 to July 2015, after which we moved to Beijing, China with my husband's work. During this time, Rakhi was extremely professional with her duties and we all miss her dearly.

Rakhi's primary duties were to look after our daughter and clean her two rooms (play room and bedroom). As we also had a housekeeper, we didn't ask her to get too involved in the rest of the housework, the exception being when we had visitors and during this time she helped out as much as necessary.

Rakhi got our daughter ready for school on a regular basis, and in the last year did the school runs as well as other activities after school. She has also cooked some meals for our daughter, especially when we are going out or when we travelled.

We also trusted Rakhi to look after our daughter when my husband and I were travelling, which for us was a major step. During this time nothing ever went wrong. She is certainly the most trustworthy person we have had the privilege to meet while in Delhi.

She is definitely capable of doing all of the house chores if she chooses to, but in our case we wanted to make sure she focussed solely with our daughter, giving sufficient time to play and do constructive things with her.

Rakhi never took a day off during her time with us and was never late for work. In our book this was one thing that was extremely important and that we were always able to rely on her. Also she was always happy to work overtime.

Looking back now I don't remember Rakhi ever saying NO to anything we asked. She performed her duties exceptionally well and at the same time controlled the balance of warm personality in the house and around our daughter.

We have never had any problems with Rakhi and whichever family she joins will be very lucky as she is a nice, honest and hard-working girl with ambition. We wish her all the best in her future.

Our family are very grateful to Rakhi and she will be missed very much by all of us and certainly never forgotten.

Yours Sincerely,

Sanela Savory
